There will be at least one additional adult in the vehicle, other than myself as drive, whenever there are more than six preschool aged children (under 6 years of age).

The number of passengers will not exceed the vehicle’s seating capacity.

Children through age four or weighing less than 40 pounds will use a child safety seat according to state law. Children through age seven or under 80 pounds must use a booster seat. Be sure the child does not exceed the height and weight specifications set by the individual car seat manufacturer.

In all cases, any and all child safety seats must be used strictly in accordance with the manufacturer’s instructions for that particular child safety seat.

All other passengers who are not in a child safety seat will use a seat belt.

There will be no more than one person in each seat belt or child safety seat.

Children may only ride in vehicles with currently licensed and insured drivers over the age of 18 years.
